The Br'er Fox II, after being awarded a trophy cup here Monday, went to Augusta the same afternoon, took a spin over the course in the rain at that place and attached another cup to her string of victories. She is now leisurely proceeding to Pittsburgh in charge of Pilot Jim Rowley of the steamer Princess. After arriving in the Smoky City the fast little forty-footer will be overhauled and made ready for a race against time. The Br'er Fox will leave Pittsburgh Sunday morning, and under the guidance of Pilot Rowley is expected to make a record trip to Cincinnati. It is claimed that the run of 460 miles will be made in 15 hours. Last season this boat made the trip to New Orleans in the record time of 53 hours, covering in that time 1,600 miles. Captain Dosson was in charge of this trip.

PROFITABLE LOSS

We MUST accept a loss of profit rather than have business decrease while expenses remain the same.

We must accept a loss of profit to get rid of remnants, broken sizes, all summer goods, merchandise on which we're overstocked and which is mussed or soiled.

We call these losses profitable because cash without profit is better than merchandise now, because a clean stock is a merchant's most valuable asset, because space must be made for autumn goods.

Of course we don't want to lose more than is necessary but there's no half way about a thing like this. The bargains must be big, which means not low price alone but low price in conjunction with quality, with seasonable and up-to-date merchandise.

This, and more, we offer in our CLEAN SWEEP SALE which opens

SATURDAY JULY TENTH

and will continue one week.

For minute particulars see Friday's LEDGER. Be sure to read the ad. if you want bargains that will make your purse tingle.

WILL WATCH HUBBY

MRS. BUNCHEAU SCADS HAS HER DOUBTS.

She Relates Some of the Happenings Incidental to Their "Butting In" to High-Class Social Functions.

"Me and Bunch had an invite to a bridge party at the Pomeroy Maltine Burgundays last night, and though I don't care much for them funshuns, Bunch was so set on goin' that we went—an' me without the least idee what a bridge party might be like; whether a fishin' picnic or some new kind of a straw ride.

"But, say, them Burgundays has sure got a swell manshun. Must be anyway all of 30 rooms, all lit by 'lectricity and bet by steam, and furniture an' statues an' pictures till you can't rest.

"First thing when you go in th' front door you see a marble statue of a young woman, with nothin' particular on, and one arm broke above th' elbow.

"An' I tole Bunch then and there I thought it plum disgraceful to have statues of young wimmen standing 'round 'thout no raiment, though it was a sin an' shame that th' hired girl had been so careless 'bout breakin' off th' arm.

"Bunch, who's been studyin' all about art since he's tried to butt into society, whispered that th' arm hadn't ben broke by no hired girl, but that the statue was a replicky—I think he said—of one made by some famous old feller, and th' arm was broke—likely bein' hit by a spade when they dug her up hundreds of years ago. Said she was the Shef Dooverin' woman did.

"They was a picture of another lady entitled 'Return of Spring,' but it looked t' me more like midsummer, for she didn't hav' a stitch more on her than th' Shef Dooverin' woman did.

"Positively they ain't a thing to this high-falutin' society for me, but I've just made up my mind that Bunch don't go to none of these doins 'thout me bein' along.

"He's pretty wise as a money get-ter, but I noticed las' night a woman who, for goodness' sake, was old enough to know better, sort o' goo-goo'ed at him.

"An' you can't never tell; mebbe she might be one o' them Shef Doover's."

One Belted Earl.

The Earl of Leicester, who died recently, was known as the "first farmer of England." On the great estates which he inherited from his father were first introduced methods of scientific farming that have greatly benefited English agriculture. They include the four-course rotation in crops—turnips, barley, clover, wheat—and the live stock shows. The earl was interesting not only as a farmer, but as an example of longevity in a long-lived family. No less than 157 years separated the birth of the father and the death of the son, and the son married his second wife 100 years after the father married his first. The father of the earl, who has just died, headed a deputation from Norfolk to urge George III to acknowledge the independence of the American colonies. He died at the age of 90, the son at the age of 87.—Youth's Companion.

"Inauguration" of Henry V.

The terrific blizzard which marred President Taft's inauguration has a parallel in English history in the stormy weather experienced at the coronation of Henry V. in 1413. Holsched, most accurate of chroniclers, informs us: "He was crowned the ninth date of April, being Passion Sundale, which was a sore ruggle and tempestuous day, with wind, snow and sleet that men greatly marveled thereat, making diverse interpretation what the same might signifie." Hardyng also mentions this tempest in his quaint rhyming chronicle:

On Passyon Sundaye after was this King Anoynt and crowned without tary-eng,
The ninth daye it was of April so
With stormes fell and haylstones grete also.

Takes Pessimistic View.

Dr. J. L. Elliott, associate leader of the Ethical Culture society, is reported to have said recently that "we are getting tired of education as displayed to us by the Yale and Harvard man, Vassar and Bryn Mawr girl. They grate on our nerves and we are beginning to think that it is money not well spent to send our children through college." With the exception of lawyers and doctors they turn out he seemed to think the college of little benefit to the man or woman in the process.

Didn't Mean It.

"A man told me yesterday that he thought you one of the smartest chaps he ever saw, but he held his hat before his face when he said it."

"What did he do that for?"

"To show me that he was talking through his hat, I guess."

Her Dear Friend.

Nan was sitting for her photograph. "What is that strange noise I hear?" she asked.

"I think it's the camera, trying to sound the 'C. Q. D.' alarm," said Pan.

No Cure For Baldness. Physician of National Reputation States That in Rare Cases Baldness is Not a Disease.

It is a well-known fact that more charlatanism is rampant today on the subject of the scalp and hair than exists concerning any other subject, excepting, perhaps, consumption. Dr. Nott says: "Among the thousands of cases that have passed under my inspection, I have seen but very few authenticated instances where baldness has been successfully treated; of course, if there was among the patent medicines anything that would accomplish the result we would know of it and would at least try it. So far as restoring hair to color or promoting the length of the hair, that's another matter. The Q-Ban Hair Restorer, for instance, will restore gray hair to its natural color. I have used it in hundreds of instances without failing in a single case. I have used the Q-Ban Hair Tonic as well, very often and effectually to encourage the growth of a luxuriant crop of hair—to remove dandruff, etc., but I have as yet to record a single case of baldness that has been effectually treated, without having to resort to a general hygienic treatment in connection with standard products, like, for instance, Q-Ban Hair Restorer and the Hair Tonic. I have found them to be very effectual assistants." Dr. Nott admits and insists that to produce a luxuriant growth of hair, to restore gray hairs, cure dandruff and diseased scalps is quite possible by simply observing the laws of health and using Q-Ban Hair Restorer and Tonic, but for baldness there is, as a rule, no cure; although some remarkable exceptions may be noted.

Q-Ban Hair Restorer and Tonic, we understand, can be had now at all druggists, put up ready for use with full directions given as to the application.

J. Jas. Wood & Son recommend and sell these preparations. If you are gray haired or your hair commencing to fade you can have the first bottle of Q-Ban Hair Restorer free. Simply call and ask for it.

For sale at all druggists.

COLORED VOTERS

Of Kentucky Organize to Demand Political Recognition

To hold a club over the heads of both political parties for the purpose of obtaining recognition for colored voters in Kentucky, representative colored men from every District and nearly every county in the State met in Louisville Monday and organized the "Negro Civic and Political League of Kentucky."

The object of the club is the "political advancement of colored men," which is taken to mean that an organized effort to control the entire colored vote of the State as a unit will be made.

G. W. Gregory of Stanford was chosen President of the organization, and A. B. Pruitt of Carlisle a member of the Executive Committee from the Ninth District.

A State convention will be held some time in the near future, at which time workers from all sections of the State will be made acquainted with the plans of the society.

SARCASTIC, BUT SENT MONEY.

How John Drew Replied to His Nephew's Touching Appeal for Financial Assistance.

Repeated efforts made by a seedy-looking individual a short time ago to "touch" a well-known actor, playing at one of the Broad street houses, recalled a lot of stories of how various actors have come to grief and how they appealed for assistance.

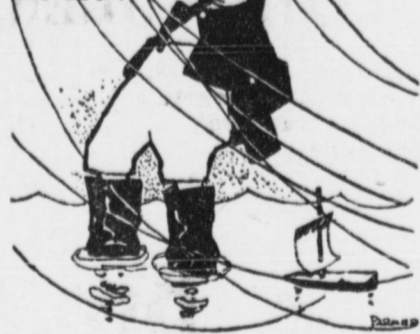

Some stories were serious, some funny, and among the latter was a yarn concerning Jack Barrymore and his uncle, John Drew. It was a good deal like adding insult to injury, but Jack got the money, anyway.

He was returning from a tour of Australia and stopped in San Francisco just in time to meet the earthquake. Jack lost everything but his clothes, and just as soon as he could get to a place where he could write a letter he directed one to John Drew, making it rather strong.

"Dear uncle," he wrote, "I am up against it in this fair city, and anything you can send me will be greatly appreciated. I was asleep when the earthquake arrived, and was thrown clear across the room into a bathtub filled with water. The shock aroused me, and, after dodging a few falling walls, I managed to reach the street, still clad in my pajamas. When I reached the street I was met by two soldiers, who immediately put me to work clearing the debris. You can see that I am up against it, and I shall await an early reply."

When Barrymore received his uncle's reply, he found it to be both short and sweet. It ran as follows: "Dear Jack: I always knew it would take an unnatural convulsion of the earth to make you take a bath, and I was also sure that it would take the United States army to put you to work." But the letter contained a money order.—Philadelphia Times.

CHARLES SHACKLEFORD.

The remains of Mr. Charles Shackelford were brought here from Chicago yesterday morning by relatives and interred by the side of his beloved and admired wife, Mrs. Orleans Shackelford. Rev. John Barbour, D. D., officiated at the grave, reading according to his request the Episcopal Burial Service.

Mr. Shackelford was the son of Dr. John and Mrs. Ann Chambers Shackelford. His father was one of the most noted physicians and surgeons of the day, his mother one of the noblest and most popular women that our city has known.

The Shackelford home on Third street was the center of hospitality and culture to a host of friends.

Mr. Shackelford was a lawyer by profession but had devoted himself in later years a good deal to magazine writing. He resided for a time at Bloomington, Ill., and was an intimate friend and adviser of Hon. Adlai Stevenson.

Owing to the short notice only a few friends gathered at the obsequies.

A HELPING HAND.

Is Gladly Extended by a Maysville Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Maysville prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence, and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

Mrs. John E. Burns of Maysville, Ky., says: "I value Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as when I gave a statement in their favor some years ago. I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney trouble and at times the pain in my back was so acute that I was confined to my bed for days. The quick and decided relief I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at J. J. Wood & Son's Drugstore, was very gratifying, and during the years which have since elapsed, I have had no serious return of kidney trouble. On some occasions, I have felt a slight backache, but a few doses of this valuable remedy have never failed to ward off any serious attack."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

While other forms of Artificial Lighting have been content to twitter with bird-like repetition "cheap, cheap, cheap," Electric Light has been loudly singing the praises of its sun-like glow and whiteness.
